3. Domaintools lookup

The screenshot shows the DomainTools Whois Lookup interface. The top navigation bar includes links for PROFILE, CONNECT, MONITOR, and SUPPORT, along with a search bar labeled 'Whois Lookup'. The main content area displays the following information:

4. There is very little difference as to the information both the lookups found. Whois results are shorter and lack admin handle and other admin details. Whereas domaintool has the admin handle and other admin details even though there is no new or extraordinary data or information that adds value to the lookup.

5. First five links of the url google search:

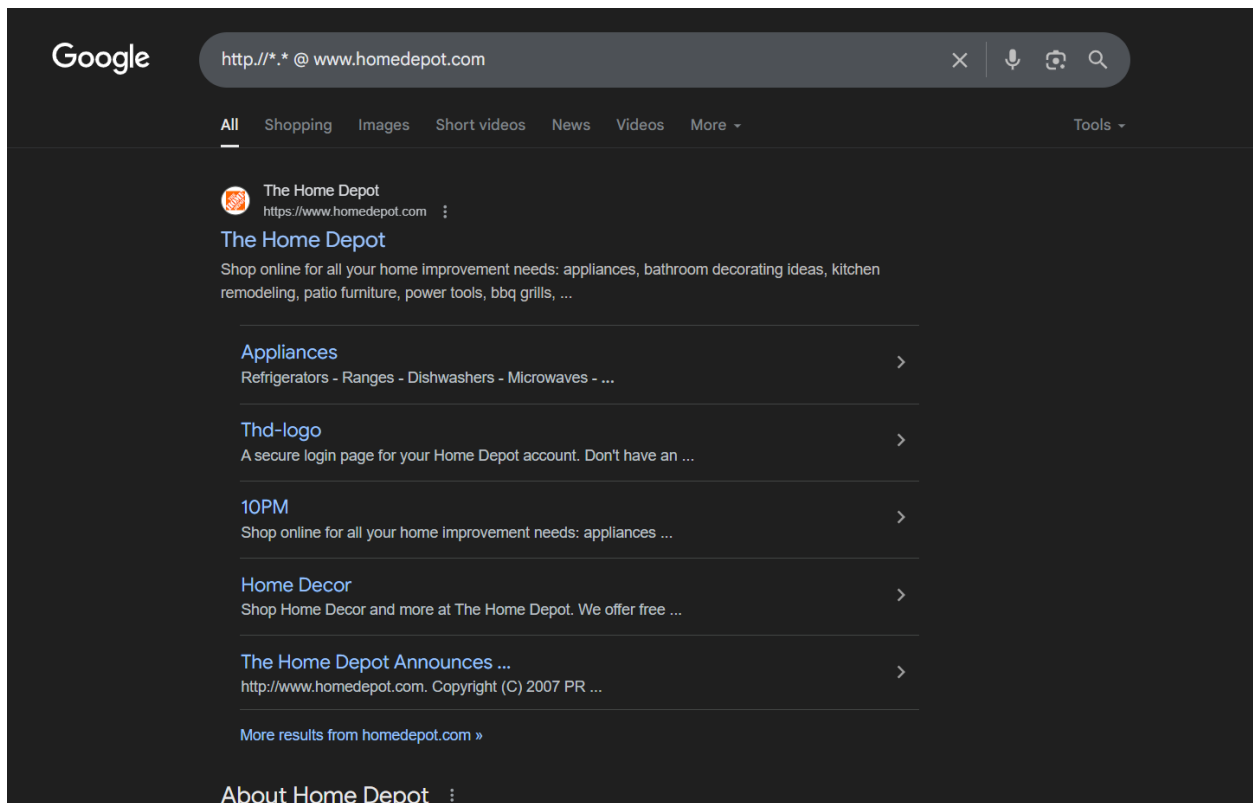

- <https://www.homedepot.com>
- <https://www.homedepot.com/home>
- <https://www.homedepot.com/c/customer-service>
- <https://www.homedepot.com/auth/view/signin>
- <https://www.homedepot.com/b/Appliances/N-5yc1vZbv1w>

Observation: Nothing interesting when you first look at it. I think the first five are the most viewed/active webpages within the url. However, I decided to investigate the log in page by viewing the source code and there is the strongest no cache signal which means the log in data can't be stored.

6. Google search: filetype:pdf pdf site:homedepot.com

Observation: Gave me nothing, infact google ai told me this is google dorking. Only got redirected to their home page.
